They Can't All Be Gems...

March 22, 2014

Sometimes every banner on the wall and all the mojo you can muster simply isn't enough. Not when your team is 0-for-10 from Three Point Land. So, the Syracuse's NCAA run ended at the hands of the Dayton Flyers, 55-53 in the Round of 32. The Orange tried, and tried hard ... and so did we Stumptown Orange...

Twenty-one of us cheered. We sighed. We groaned. We hoped. Basketball-wise it just wasn't our day. But it was a good day in terms of reacquainting ourselves with some Stumptowners we hadn't seen in a while, like Jim Friscia '74 (left) and Syracuse native Dan O'Hearn (in the first photo on this page).

So the women's hoops team is left to carry on – congrats to the women for their first-ever NCAA tourney win on Saturday, a 59-53 victory over Tennessee-Chattanooga. And lacrosse is well underway.

For the Stumptown Orange, we head into the non-sports part of our schedule. Look for a National Orange Day volunteer project at the end of April, then put your hiking boots on as we explore the history and art of downtown Vancouver on May 17. Our annual meeting and the Student Send-off BBQ follow those events this spring and summer. But before we put the men's basketball season to bed, let's look at a few more watch party photos...
